A panel of industry experts, moderated by Wisconsin Farm Bureau's Rob Richard, will look back at the successes and challenges of Wisconsin's inaugural hemp season. There will be in-depth discussion on what needs to happen in 2019 for hemp growers, processors and manufacturers to reclaim Wisconsin's once historic dominance of this incredibly versatile crop.

Learn more about hemp grain, fiber and CBD (cannabidiol) markets, plant development and agronomics and likely state and federal regulatory changes. Make informed business decisions with key input from insurance and lending experts on how provisions in the 2018 Farm Bill will impact crop and personal/real property insurance coverage, as well as financial transactions and lending opportunities, for hemp operations.

Gain valuable insight and ask questions of our expert panelists:

- State Senator Patrick Testin, author of Wisconsin's Hemp Law
- Melody Walker, Industrial Hemp Program Team Leader, Department of Agriculture, Trade and Consumer Protection
- Ken Anderson, President and Founder, Legacy Hemp Holdings
- Kurt Mansavage, Manager Agri-business Underwriting & Crop/Hail Services, Rural Mutual Insurance Company
- Dr. Jonathan Vaught, CEO and Founder, Front Range Biosciences
- Scott Birrenkott, Assistant Director – Legal, Wisconsin Bankers Association

** Because this event coincides with the WFBF Annual Meeting, a fee of $100 will be required for non-members. This fee will include a one-year membership and access to the trade show, silent auction and a cocktail reception following the presentation. Fee for Farm Bureau members not registered for the Annual Meeting will be $45. Farm Bureau members registered for the Annual Meeting pay no additional fee for this event.
